

Advancing knowledge and the financial centre through German TSI SPVs

Academic institutions as beneficiaries of the charitable trusts

The beneficiaries of the charitable trusts are three academic institutions, two of which are capital market research institutes at the University of Frankfurt while one is a private university.

The beneficiary foundations

The Center for Financial Studies (CFS) at the Johann Wolfgang Goethe University, Frankfurt is the beneficiary of the “Stiftung Kapitalmarktforschung für den Finanzstandort Deutschland”

The CFS conducts independent and internationally-oriented research on financial markets, financial intermediaries and monetary economics, promotes the dialogue between academia and the financial community and provides top level qualification training and executive development.

The Institute for Law and Finance (ILF) at the Johann Wolfgang Goethe University, Frankfurt is the beneficiary of the “Stiftung Kapitalmarktrecht für den Finanzstandort Deutschland”

The ILF is a centre of excellence in the fields of international law and finance. It pursues the goal of providing the best interdisciplinary training for lawyers, senior management and executives in Germany and all over the world and to always be at the forefront of legal developments relevant to financial markets. In addition to teaching, the ILF engages in research and publications. It also serves as a policy centre by offering a forum for exchange between academia and practitioners.

The European Business School (EBS) is the beneficiary of the “Stiftung Unternehmensfinanzierung und Kapitalmärkte für den Finanzstandort Deutschland”

The EBS is located at Schloss Reichartshausen in the Rheingau. It is a business university for future executives. The EBS Department of Finance, Accounting & Real Estate is one of the largest of its kind in Germany and specialises in particular in empirical research with a clear focus on current topics from banking and business practice.

The purpose of the charitable trusts is to advance knowledge and the financial centre

The purpose of the charitable trusts is to advance knowledge skills in the areas of research and teaching with the focus on capital market law, the structure and development of financial markets in Germany and Europe, corporate finance and capital markets. This is achieved by

- presenting a promotional award every two years,
- offering financial support to the libraries of the above-mentioned institutions,
- providing financial support to academic institutions for arranging guest lectures,
- setting up and maintaining study and research facilities preferably in connection with the above-mentioned institutions,
- organising academic congresses on the priority interests of the institution concerned,
- evaluating and publishing research findings and
- promoting vocational training for young academics to qualify them for academic research and teaching.

Your contribution to advancing knowledge and the financial centre

ABS transactions launched via the TSI securitisation platform contribute to advancing knowledge and the financial centre on a long-term basis.

The charitable trusts can also be supported directly through other donations (see attached form).
